

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies
control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line
and less of what we need for our democracy.

News has become another form of entertainment, and an avenue for propaganda. It is difficult to find ANY accurate,
unbiased news in the media. Even those who don't "spin"
left or right, are more interested in
"dressing up" the
news for ratings,
than providing information, leading to vapid, useless
stories, mixed with transparent
propaganda.

Sinclair's actions
show why we need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license
renewal process
needs to involve
more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
